Hunter Pace Basics

The hunter pace is the most casual horse show you will ever attend. Most people come out just to have a really nice, relaxing trail ride with their horse and other horse loving friends, and don't really care too much about the ribbons - though we do pin through 8th place. There is no dress code, as long as you wear boots with a heel and a helmet.

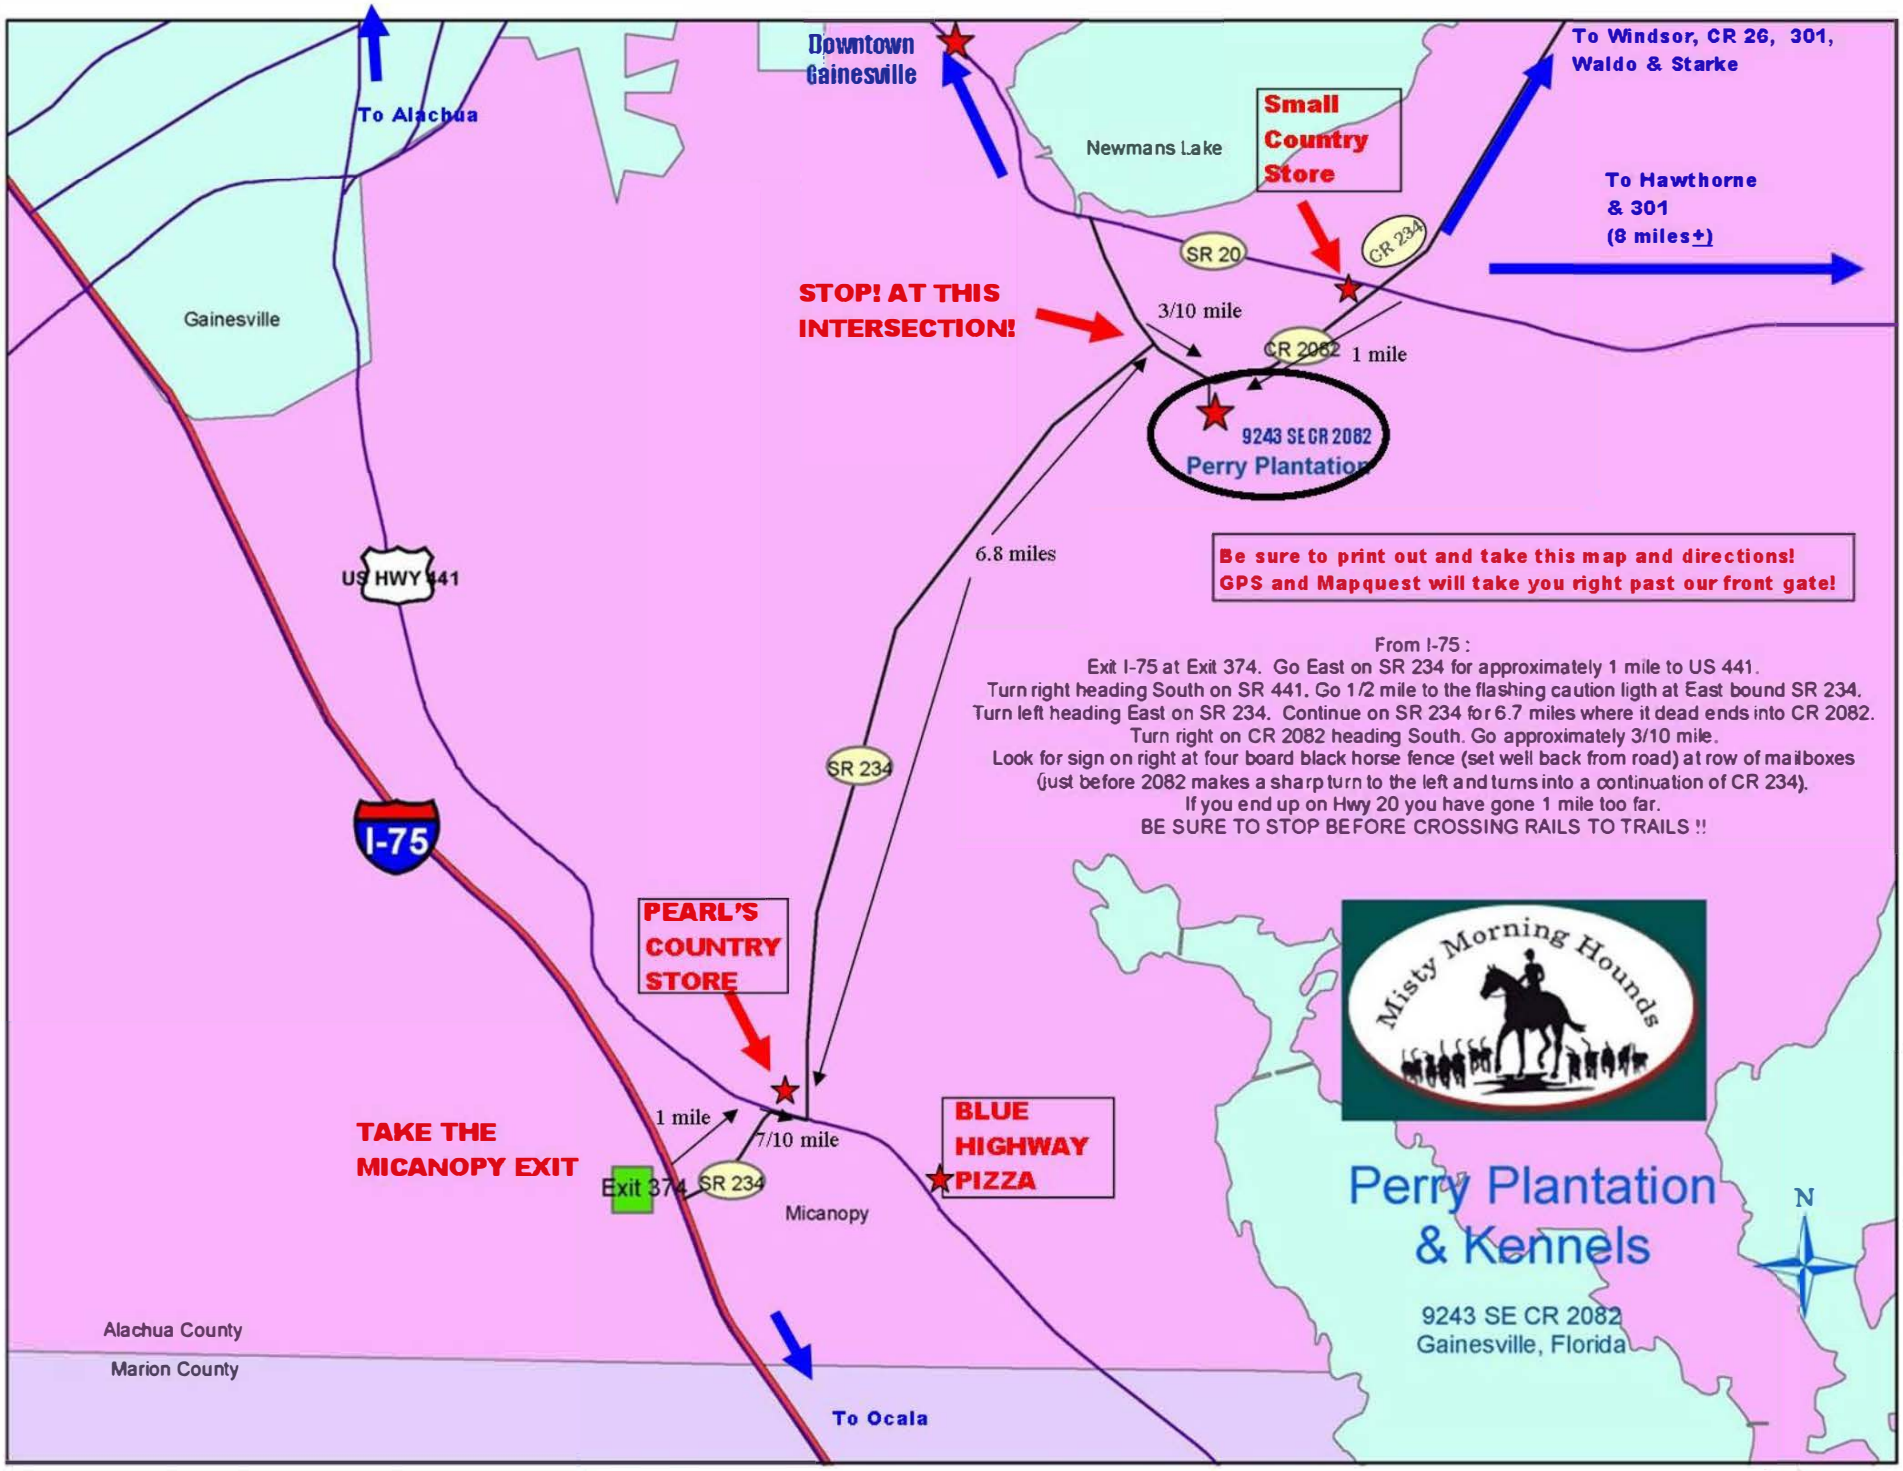

Some more competitive types, will take it more seriously, but I caution them that just because they place well in one pace, that time won't necessarily place them well in the next pace. The reason is that on smaller paces with fewer riders, you could place first - but be 15 minutes off the optimum time. The next pace with loads of riders, there may be riders 15 seconds off the optimum. We do not give out how far you are off the optimum time—for obvious reasons, but we can tell you if you are fast or slow. This event is strictly for fun! We can match you up with partners for a team, so don't worry if you come alone, and you can meet some new horsey friends!

Basically, on the 6-8 mile courses we have pre-determined an optimum time that we would deem appropriate to either Pasture or Hunt Fit. When out hunting, you wouldn't normally go 7–8 miles at say 400 mpm without giving your horse breaks from time to time to recover. When hunting, there is also walking and standing around time. Whatever team comes in closest to that optimum time wins, and the placings in the class go down the line as to which team is closest to that optimum time. It doesn't matter if it is fast or slow off of optimum.

On the Pasture Fit, you would be expected to spend a good amount of time walking & trotting - maybe even some short canters, as well as some standing around time and time to play around at obstacles, or re-take jumps a couple of times - as a 3rd Field might do on a hunt .

Hunt Fit would move at a faster pace with more trotting & cantering - even galloping - but also with some standing around & walking time, too, as you would expect when riding in 1st or 2nd Field in a hunt. We've also built into Hunt Fit, time to play around at obstacles, or re-take jumps a couple of times - as a First or Second Field might do on a hunt (A Misty Morning Hounds Hunt, anyway!)

So the point is not to rush your way around the course—take time to take in the scenery, wildlife, enjoy the time with your horse, and smell the roses, so to speak. Keep a pace that keeps both you & your horse entertained, safe, and happy—and who knows! You may even get a ribbon!
